Maine AAP President's Message Brian Youth, MD, FAAP

I was in my clinical office the other day talking with a family about what plans they had for the rest of the summer. My 8-year-old patient proudly described a soccer camp she had just finished, a baking camp she was starting, and a planned overnight tent camping trip with a friend, and then said very excitedly, "and I start school again in a month!"

Two things about that conversation made me smile- one was baking camp. I told her (and I meant it) that I would LOVE to go to a baking camp (she invited me to join her on her first day, but I respectfully declined). The second thing that made me smile was her true excitement about starting school again- I found myself reminiscing about how cool it was to be at that age where starting a new school year was so exciting, a chance to meet up with friends, find my new desk in a shiny new classroom, and maybe get a new backpack. That moment took me out of my mindset of what sometimes feels like constant worry and reminded me of the simple joy of living in the moment, like an 8-year-old might. I left that visit and felt so thankful to be a pediatrician and have moments like that to sustain me when I'm seeing the cup half empty instead of full.

Yes, the end of summer isn't too far off, so please take some time to get outside, jump in the ocean, hike a trail, or do whatever it is that brings you joy. Cooler days will be here before we know it. Thank you for being the child advocates you are as pediatricians, and don't forget to live in the moment like an 8-year-old, at least once in a while!

A poster for the School Health Summit. The background is teal with a purple border. At the top, the words "SCHOOL HEALTH SUMMIT" are in white and orange boxes, with a sun and clouds illustration. Below is "Augusta Civic Center" in a purple box, then "Saturday, Oct. 25, 2025 | 8:00am - 4:00pm" in an orange box. A purple box states "Early Bird Rate of $135 until September 31st!". A circular photo of Dr. Nirav Shah is on the left. To his right, his name and title are listed. Below is a list of topics. At the bottom, a welcome reception note and three logos (Maine AAP, Maine Department of Education, MASN) are shown.

Member Spotlights

Maine AAP Member and the Medical Director of the MaineHealth Maine Medical Center's Outpatient Clinics, Dr. Stephen DiGiovanni is the Co-Lead author on a new resource! This new resource on Behavioral-Development Health Screening and Response for Adolescents (Ages 12-17) in Pediatric Primary Care from the AHRQ Integration Academy is designed to help pediatric and family medicine teams better support adolescents and their families.

VIEW THE BRIEF

Maine AAP Board Member, Dr. Dan Hale, gave a presentation for the Boston Children's Hospital community educational summit in April. Many pediatricians from New England attended including several from Maine. Dan's presentation was titled "Childhood safety: what's new in 2025!" and reviewed updated technology and research safety advances for some of the most common causes of pediatric fatalities: firearms, drownings, and house fires. It is important to weave prevention efforts into health care points of contact including well child visits, acute care contacts, and hospitalizations.

News Release from the AAP

New Resource: Tools to Support School Health Information Sharing

"School nurses and pediatricians play integral roles in keeping children safe and healthy while furthering their education. That's why the AAP and National Association of School Nurses created a consent form template and implementation toolkit to provide the best practices for communication between schools, local health care providers, and families. The tools facilitate information sharing to support care coordination for chronic condition management. Click here to learn more."

Maine AAP School Health Committee Chair, Dr. Alyssa Goodwin, is one of the experts who collaborated to develop a "FERPA-and HIPAA-compliant information sharing agreement template consent form to facilitate cross-sector communication between schools and the primary medical home."

Dr. Goodwin will be presenting on this work at the 2025 School Health Summit at the Augusta Civic Center on October 25th! Find the registration details above!
